As a Pegasus user, you will benefit from our experience of selling, installing and supporting Pegasus Accounting Solutions since 1983, which is second to none. In fact when the company was first formed over 25 years ago we were involved in the creation of what became the first Pegasus Accounting Solution, so we truly have been there since the beginning.

Since the early 1980's Gateway has remained in the forefront of Pegasus developments, and it is our own designed document management software which Pegasus decided to use and supply to all their Opera II customers.

Accordingly, our customers have benefited from our capability to design and develop special applications that integrate and appear part of Opera to address specific business needs without compromising the proven processes delivered through standard Opera modules.

This all means that your Opera systems are then supported by a highly trained team of consultants and systems developers that understand the practical demands of business practises and proven accounting routines, but that they have the technical competencies to provide in depth support for the applications software.

Our consultants are multi skilled in both Pegasus software and I.T. infrastructure to insure they have all the skills required to assist you with your issue without needs to put you through to other departments.

By choosing Gateway Computing as your preferred supplier, it means that you have access to a team that specialises in keeping Pegasus Accounting Solution users happy throughout the UK. So we really do have more experience of ensuring that systems are kept running year in and year out, and when something happens we do have the capability to find the cause and knowledge to get it fixed in the shortest amount of time possible.
